THE SPIDER AND THE FLY.

QUARTET.

"WILL you walk into my parlour?" said the spider to the fly;
" 'Tis the prettiest little parlour that ever you did spy;
The way into the parlour is up a winding stair,
And I've many a curious thing to show when you are there!"
"Oh, no, no," said the little fly—"to ask me is in vain,
For who goes up your winding stair can ne'er come down again."
"I am sure you must be weary, dear, with soaring up so high;
Will you rest upon my little bed?" said the spider to the fly;
"There are pretty curtains drawn around, the sheets are fine and thin,
And if you like to rest awhile, I'll snugly tuck you in!"
"Oh, no, no," said the little fly, "for I've often heard it said,
They never, never wake again, who sleep upon your bed."
Said the cunning spider to the fly, "Dear friend, what can I do
To prove the warm affection I've always felt for you?
I have, within my pantry, good store of all that's nice;
I'm sure you're very welcome, will you please to take a slice?"
"Oh, no, no," said the little fly, "kind sir, that cannot be,
I've heard what's in your pantry, and I do not wish to see."

The spider turn'd him round about, and went into his den,
For well he knew the silly fly would soon come back again;
So he wove a subtle web in a little corner sly,
And set his table ready to dine upon the fly.
Then he came out to his door again, and merrily did sing,
"Come hither, hither, pretty fly, with pearl and silver wing;
Your robes are green and purple, there's a crest upon your head;
Your eyes are like the diamond bright, but mine are dull as lead."
Alas! alas! how very soon this silly little fly,
Hearing his wily, flattering words, came slowly flitting by;
With buzzing wings she hung aloft, then near and nearer drew,
Thinking only of her brilliant eyes, and green and purple hue;
Thinking only of her crested head, poor foolish thing! at last
Up jump'd the cunning spider, and fiercely held her fast.
He dragg'd her up his winding stair, into his dismal den,
Within his little parlour,—but she ne'er came out again.

MARY HOWITT.

SUNSHINY WEATHER.*

CONTRALTO.

A PLUMP little girl and a thin little bird
Were out in the meadow together,
How cold that poor little bird must be Without any clothes like mine," said she,
"Although it is sunshiny weather."

"A nice little girl is that," said he,
"But oh, how cold she must be!
For, see, she hasn't a single feather!"
So each shiver'd to think of the other poor thing,
Although it was sunshiny weather.

MARY MAPES DODGE.

*(Words, by permission, from the "St. Nicholas Magazine.")

THE MOUNTAIN AND THE SQUIRREL.

BARITONE.

THE mountain and the squirrel
Had a quarrel,
And the former called the latter " Little prig ; "
Bun replied,
" You are doubtless very big ;
But all sorts of things and weather
Must be taken in together
To make up a year
And a sphere.

And I think it no disgrace
To occupy my place.
If I'm not so large as you,
You are not so small as I,
And not half so spry :
I'll not deny you make
A very pretty squirrel track.
Talents differ ; all is well and wisely put ;
If I cannot carry forests on my back,
Neither can you crack a nut."

R. W. EMERSON.

THE FROG'S LAMENT.

DUET: SOPRANO AND CONTRALTO.

UPON a stone, one early morn,
A little frog sat all forlorn.
A silv'ry streamlet ling'ring near
Beheld his plight with grief sincere.
The frog, in accents hoarse and low,
Pour'd forth a tale of deepest woe,—
" I dreamt my days were o'er," he said,
" And wonder still if I am dead."

" What was your dream ? " the streamlet asked,
" Tell me and I'll condole."
" I dreamt I had swallow'd myself,"
Croaked the poor little soul
He thereupon began to weep,
His little tears came fast ;
He sobbed until he fell asleep
Upon that stone at last.

HILTON SCHOFIELD.

WHAT BECAME OF THEM ?

TENOR.

HE was a rat, and she was a rat,
And down in one hole they did dwell,
And both were as black as a witch's cat,
And they loved one another well.

He had a tail, and she had a tail,
Both long and curly and fine ;
And each said, " Yours is the finest tail
In the world, excepting mine."

He smelt the cheese, and she smelt the cheese,
And they both pronounced it good ;
And both remarked it would greatly add
To the charms of their daily food.

So he ventured out, and she ventured out,
And I saw them go with pain ;
But what befell them I never can tell,
For they never came back again.

ANON.

FICKLE FORTUNE.

SOPRANO.

A BUTTERFLY and busy bee
Both loved the same sweet flower ;
So Jealousy, that grim old jade,
Had them within her power.
Great havoc reigned supreme in hearts
That beat with love so burning ;
Oh ! why had Cupid with his darts
Fill'd both their hearts with yearning
For one sweet flow'r, who used her power
Two little heads in turning !

The flower knew not which she loved best ;
In order to decide,
The rivals flew away to fight,—
Poor butterfly, he died.
Be-draggled and exhausted quite
The bee, so badly shaken,
Crawl'd back to claim her for his bride,
But found he was forsaken.
The stem remained, alone unclaimed,—
The flower someone had taken.

HILTON SCHOFIELD.

THE OWL AND THE PUSSY-CAT.*

QUARTET.

The Owl and the Pussy-Cat went to sea
In a beautiful pea-green boat,
They took some honey, and plenty of money,
Wrapped up in a five-pound note.
The Owl looked up to the stars above,
And sang to a small guitar,
“ O lovely Pussy ! O Pussy, my love,
What a beautiful Pussy you are,
You are,
You are !
What a beautiful Pussy you are ! ”

Pussy said to the Owl, “ You elegant fowl !
How charmingly sweet you sing !
O let us be married ! too long we have tarried :
But what shall we do for a ring ? ”
They sailed away for a year and a day,
To the land where the Bong-tree grows,
And there in a wood a Piggy-wig stood,
With a ring at the end of his nose,
His nose,
His nose,
With a ring at the end of his nose.

“ Dear Pig, are you willing to sell for one shilling
Your ring ? ” Said the Piggy, “ I will.”
So they took it away, and were married next day
By the Turkey who lives on the hill.
They dined on mince, and slices of quince,
Which they ate with a runcible spoon ;
And hand in hand, on the edge of the sand,
They danced by the light of the moon,
The moon,
The moon,
They danced by the light of the moon.

Andante.

Contralto. Piano.

The musical score consists of three staves. The top staff is for the Contralto, starting with a rest. The middle staff is for the Piano, with a dynamic of p. The bottom staff is also for the Piano. The lyrics begin with "A plump lit - tle girl and a thin lit - tle bird Were" followed by a repeat sign. The music continues with "out in the mea-dow to - geth - er, _____" and ends with a final section of piano music.

Music by
HAYDN WOOD.

Con spirito.

The musical score consists of four staves of music. The top staff is for the Baritone, starting with a rest followed by a bass clef, a key signature of two sharps, and a 3/4 time signature. The second staff is for the Piano, starting with a treble clef, a key signature of two sharps, and a dynamic of f. The third staff continues the Baritone line, and the fourth staff continues the Piano line. The vocal line begins with "The moun - tain and" followed by "squir - rel Had a quar - rel, had a quar - rel, And the for - mer call'd the". The piano accompaniment provides harmonic support throughout the piece.

The musical score consists of three systems of music. The top system starts with a basso continuo staff (B.C.) in G major, followed by a vocal staff in G major, and another basso continuo staff below it. The middle system starts with a basso continuo staff, followed by a vocal staff, and another basso continuo staff below it. The bottom system starts with a basso continuo staff, followed by a vocal staff, and another basso continuo staff below it. The vocal parts feature lyrics such as 'think it no dis - grace — To oc - cu - py my place. If', 'I'm not so large as you, — You are', 'not — so small as I, And not half so', and 'spry, — and not half so spry,'. The piano parts provide harmonic support with chords and bass lines. Various dynamics are indicated throughout the score, including mf, f, mp, p, rit., and a tempo.

The musical score consists of six staves of music. The top staff is in bass clef, the middle staff in treble clef, and the bottom staff in bass clef. The piano accompaniment has two staves, one in treble clef and one in bass clef. The vocal line starts with a melodic line in the bass clef staff, followed by harmonic chords in the treble clef staff, and then a bass line in the bass clef staff. The piano accompaniment provides harmonic support with chords in both treble and bass clefs. The score includes several dynamic markings: 'ff a tempo.' (fortissimo at tempo), 'f rit.' (forte ritardando), and 'a tempo.' (tempo). There are also performance instructions: 'on my back' and 'nut.' The vocal line ends with a melodic line in the bass clef staff, followed by harmonic chords in the treble clef staff, and then a bass line in the bass clef staff.

Sheet music for a vocal piece, likely for soprano or alto, with piano accompaniment. The music is in common time and G major (indicated by a treble clef and two sharps). The vocal part consists of four staves, and the piano part is in the bass clef.

The vocal line begins with a melodic line, followed by a section where the vocal part is silent while the piano accompaniment plays eighth-note chords. The vocal part then enters again with the lyrics "Pus - sy said to the Owl," You". The piano accompaniment provides harmonic support with eighth-note chords.

The vocal line continues with the lyrics "e - le - gant fowl!" repeated three times, each time followed by the word "How" on the next staff. The piano accompaniment maintains a steady harmonic foundation throughout these sections.

At the end of the page, there is a dynamic marking p above the piano part, indicating a piano dynamic, and the piano accompaniment provides a concluding harmonic flourish.

Text lyrics:

- "You" (repeated three times)
- Pus - sy said to the Owl, "You"
